I don't get how come this is a cogeneration project, that uses different small scale methodologies for each component of emission reductions (thermal and electric) as separate, when it should use only the methodology for cogeneration such as ssc id.